

C¹

cont

novobiocin.

C²

10. (twice amended) A microorganism belonging to the genus Escherichia, having an ability to produce and L-amino acid, and having resistance to a DNA gyrase inhibitor and to an aminoquinoline derivative, wherein the microorganism is obtained by subjecting a microorganism having an ability to produce an L-amino acid to a mutation treatment.

C³

12. (twice amended) A microorganism belonging to the genus Escherichia, having an ability to produce L-histidine, and having resistance to a DNA gyrase inhibitor and an aminoquinoline derivative.

Please add the following new Claim 16:

C⁴

-16. A microorganism according to claim 10, wherein the L-amino acid is L-histidine.